

Business Chinese - Level Description

Elementary (6 Levels)

You will learn to communicate in a range of common topics that are essential for living and working in China. After completing this level, you will have a solid foundation in Mandarin pronunciation, vocabulary and sentence structures and be able to begin building relationships with Chinese business associates.

Lower Intermediate (2 Levels)

You will be able to communicate fluently in essential social situations and begin learning about business topics in the Chinese context. You will be exposed to an overview of China's changing environment and current business practices relating to finance, marketing and a range of current issues in the Chinese business world.

Intermediate (3 Levels)

You will be able to discuss business-critical areas such as finance, banking, electronic business, marketing, international trade and negotiations, insurance and securities, investment and litigation. You will be able to hold discussions confidently and begin to learn writing for business purposes.

Upper Intermediate (3 Levels)

Completing these levels will give you the skills to function in a wide range of business situations and function independently. You will be able to conduct discussions at all levels of the organization and gather information from Chinese economic news sources.

